FACILITIES

KCC heightened its community access over the past five years by bringing classes and services closer to residents. The college established the Harold & Jean Miner South Extension Center in Watseka (2013), and the Manufacturing and Industrial Technology Center in Kankakee (2014). KCC's North Extension Center in Bradley (opened in 2014) was Kankakee County's first LEED Gold Certified building. Still under construction, the Advanced Technology Education Center on the Riverfront Campus is also designed to meet LEED Gold standards.

In 2018, the college employed 212 full-time and 280 part-time employees; 77 of these persons have salaries paid by state and federal grants.

Faculty and staff anecdotally report that KCC features a

FAMILY ATMOSPHERE

and is a professionally supportive workplace. Professional development is encouraged, and adequate budgetary allocations are provided for this purpose.

BUDGET

KCC's conservative approach to budget processes has contributed significantly to the ongoing positive financial condition of the college. The college enjoys a with operating funds coming primarily from state (16%), local tax (43%) and student tuition and fee (35%) sources. The fiscal year 2019 operating budget is approximately $25 million, with a total budget approximating $45 million.

SOUND FINANCIAL STATUS

COLLEGE PROFILE

SUSTAINABILITY

KCC consistently earns recognition for its sustainability programs. The college is a charter signatory of the American College and University Presidents Climate Commitment and founding member of the Illinois Green Economy Network (IGEN). In 2012, KCC received a National Science Foundation grant for $855,000 to advance local and regional solar career opportunities. In November 2017, KCC was named for Sustainability performance among associate degree colleges by the Association for the Advancement of Sustainability in Higher Education (AASHE).

NO. 2 IN NORTH AMERICA

The college's latest facilities are designed with sustainability in mind. KCC's North Extension Center in Bradley, which opened in 2014, became

KANKAKEE COUNTY'S FIRST LEED GOLD CERTIFIED BUILDING.

Still under construction, the Advanced Technology Education Center on the Riverfront Campus is also designed to meet LEED Gold standards. It opens in the spring of 2019, and will feature the Electrical Technology program renewable energy curriculum in the teaching and lab spaces.

ENERGY COSTS ARE LOWERED

because of wind and solar solutions.

A wind tower on KCC's Riverfront campus supplies a small portion of energy to the Riverfront campus, and serves as a learning lab for students.

And, a solar farm is planned for installation later this year on the south edge of campus. Its energy will also power the Riverfront campus, saving as much as $40,000 per year for the first 10 years, and more than $100,000 per year in the decades after.

The KCC Foundation

$7 MILLION ENDOWMENT

THE KCC FOUNDATION SUPPORTS STUDENTS

with their academic, social and financial transitions throughout college. It funds more than $200,000 in scholarships annually, and assists students who face barriers to completion through the Compassion Fund, Women's Giving Circle grants and the Cavaliers Annual Fund.

Among the barriers faced, hunger is an issue that can prevent students from completion. In an effort to support students in a variety of ways, the KCC Foundation raises funds for the KCC Food Pantry.

In an era of flat and declining state support, philanthropy is important for the college's future. The KCC Foundation Board works collaboratively with the community to give KCC students the resources that they need to be successful. Sustaining supportive relationships is a priority, along with finding innovative ways to fund student needs.
